BLIZZARD PARALYZES BUSINESS AND TRAFFIC IN THIS VICINITY

Snow Borne by Gale of Wind Drifts Streets and Roads—Trains and Trolleys Hard Hit—Schools Closed—Outdoor Work Mostly Suspended.

The storm that has been battering the north Atlantic coast and which hit New York city Wednesday struck Kingston shortly before midnight, and this morning the city was in the grip of the first real blizzard of the winter, lying up the trolley road and delaying the railroads leading into Kingston. The storm of snow was accompanied by a heavy wind that drifted the roads and made traffic almost impossible. The schools were closed today, and all of the factories worked short handed.

The storm seemed to rage the worst between New York and Kingston and the New York newspaper men, due here shortly after 6 o'clock, did not pull into the union station until 9 o'clock. Between Albany and Kingston the trains ran more regularly this morning and the early morning Albany train pulled in nearly on time. The train from the west, due here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, was several hours late.

The Trolley Road's Troubles.

So high did the snow drift that the trolley road today it is impossible to run with any regularity at all this morning. The Ponckhockie section of the city was without trolley service until later in the day. One trolley car got through as far as North street and then had to return to Albany street, unable to get to Kingston Point. This trolley lay at the foot of Albany street for a number of hours unable to get to Kingston.

Quicker to Walk.

Many Ponckhockie residents boarded the trolley but as the time passed, and the car was unable to start they decided it was quicker to walk to the Strand. Many of the girls employed in the factories from Ponckhockie when they found the trolley was tied up indefinitely returned home.

Fortunately for those residing in the Ponckhockie section the trolley was not run through early in the morning and those who walked did not have to plough through as much drift to get to work.

At the Subway.

The snow plow of the trolley road does not work to advantage in the Colonial subway and the work of clearing out the subway and keeping it clear was accomplished with a gang of shovelers.

The trolley road used every effort to run cars, and was able to maintain better service on the Kingston City division than the Colonial division.

Factories Short-Handed.

All of the local factories were operated with a short force today, as the employees found it impossible to get through to work. Those who reside out of town were forced to remain at home as it was impossible to get through with a risk as the snow had drifted and blocked the roads.

Closed the Schools.

Superintendent of Schools M. J. Michael, when he found how difficult it was to travel the streets closed all of the schools for the day. Even if the schools had kept open there would have been only a handful of pupils present at the roll call.

Telephone Company Not Troubled.

Inquiry at the New York Telephone Company office brought out the fact that the storm had not placed any telephones out of commission, and that the majority of the "hello" calls had been able to report for work. Telephone service was unusually good today, considering the winter conditions.

At the Central Post Office.

It was stated that the rural free delivery carriers had started out with their lists about an hour, but it was a question how far they would be able to get. It is quite likely that they will find it impossible to cover all their routes, but will deliver as much as possible.

The City Carriers Also Had a Difficult Time Today.

With the huge drifts of snow they had to plough through to reach the houses.

Steps Out the Work.

All work on the ice and the local shovellers was stopped by the storm. The blizzard is likely to stop for a few days during this season. The ice companies have met with unusual success this winter in securing an early start. As fast as they could clear the snow they would be visited by another snow storm. This added to the task of cutting a crew.

Wind Played Pranks.

The wind storm also played a number of pranks on housewives. This one sidewalk would be cleared up with snow the housewife would find that the wind had blown her rubbish into the street.

Her neighbors also spoke their minds in that the snow had blown through into the house and that the snow was not protected by storm.

few people were seen on the streets during the morning hours. Only those whose business called them out were to be seen.

Ash Men Were Out.

The storm did not deter the ashmen from collecting ashes as usual this morning. They were out early with their rigs, and made collections on their routes as far as it was possible to do so.

Deliveries Of Milk Late.

The milkmen and the bakers also worked under difficulties this morning, and it was late before they finally covered all of their routes. Those who had to go without fresh milk and rolls for breakfast should not blame the milkman and the baker, but the storm for the delay.

Impossible To Shovel Walks.

Hardly any attempt, aside from the business sections of the city, was made to shovel off the sidewalks of the accumulation of snow, for as fast as the walk was cleared the wind would drift the snow back on.

No Over-The-River Cabs.

So severe was the storm that the over-the-river automobiles made no attempt to cross this morning. There was a terrific wind storm on the river, and even if a taxi had ventured to make the trip it would have been impossible to make the crossing.

Business At Stand Still.

It was at a late hour before all of the clerks were able to report at the stores this morning, and in some cases the clerks living at a distance were unable to report for work. But that made no difference as but little business was transacted, and the clerks had considerable idle time on their hands.

Mr. Groundhog Some Prophet.

Old Mr. Groundhog and his fellow weather prophet, Bre'r Brainer, when they saw their shadows on Monday did wisely when they retired to the ran to their caves for another six weeks snooze, for they evidently must have smelt the blizzard that broke over Kingston and the surrounding territory.

Also, according to some of the two-legged weather prophets of last fall, those bees and squirrels must be on short rations.

MORRELO TAKEN TO ALBANY

Louis Morrelo, the Italian who had been in jail for about three months, having been arrested in connection with the stealing of an automobile of a merchant named Reed at Saugerties, was taken to Albany Wednesday afternoon by a deputy sheriff and placed in the county jail there.

Morrelo is under indictment in that county for receiving stolen goods. He was arrested at Hudson, where he had sold the stolen automobile, and turned over to the Ulster county authorities as the auto was stolen in this county. It developed after Morrelo was indicted here that he did not steal the auto but received it at Albany from a thief and took it to Hudson, where he sold it. Not having committed any crime in Ulster county he was indicted in Albany for receiving stolen goods and selling it.

TROLLEY USERS PROTEST STRONGLY

Two Hundred At Meeting Sign Petition Against Removing Washington Avenue Tracks—Will Be Circulated Over Whole City—Judge Jenkins To Name Committee To Go Before P. S. C.—Davis For T-Cont Fare.

The meeting called Wednesday evening at the court house by Alderman Martin and Alderman Myers for the purpose of giving the taxpayers of the Twelfth and Eleventh wards a chance to air their views and protest against the removal of the Colonial trolley tracks from Washington avenue, was attended by two hundred interested property owners not only from these two wards but from other wards of the city. There were several women present.

Alderman Martin called the meeting to order and after briefly explaining its purpose asked that a permanent chairman be appointed. John E. Mahar placed the name of Judge James Jenkins in nomination and he was made chairman of the meeting. William P. Glass was selected to act as secretary.

Judge Jenkins then explained what the trolley company was trying to do and explained from a legal viewpoint what the people of the city should do to protest against the removal of the tracks. When the trolley company asked for a franchise to operate a trolley system in the city they asked that Washington avenue to be one of the streets through which it should run. Judge Jenkins said that at that time they pointed out what great benefits would be derived from the trolley there and that grounds hundreds of people in that section of the city had bought property and built. Now the company wants to remove the track because they claim that it no longer pays. Judge Jenkins reminded the people that very often the promises of corporations sounded good but they were not always as good as they sounded.

In explaining the method now being pursued Judge Jenkins said the trolley company was proceeding under section 184 of the railway law to discontinue a part of their franchise. The procedure followed first, the matter is put up to the board of managers and if acted on favorably the matter goes to the stockholders. Then a resolution is passed and certified to the public service commission. A public hearing is then had and the permission either granted or refused. It is at this point that the people of the city must be prepared to do their part.

There must be enough evidence on the part of the people of the city to show that the trolley service west of Washington avenue and in the vicinity is necessary.

Inasmuch as the common council had unanimously voted against the taking up of the trolley system on Washington avenue, Judge Jenkins said that the official act was well enough but the appearance of a few of the people to back it up would help.

An opportunity to discuss both sides of the matter was then given. William M. Davis, who said he came to represent Aaron Cohen and the Kingston Fair Grounds Association, explained that although he was not interested in any way in the trolley company, still he thought that the company should have a chance to explain their position and that he had learned that they were not operating at a profit. Mr. Davis brought up the matter of fares, stating that the company from their report made had been losing money at 6 cents. He thought the thing to do was to petition the common council for a 7 cent fare to curtail the $3,000 loss which the trolley company claims they sustained last year. He spoke of the trolley system in the borough of Richmond, where it had been operated as a loss and the system was abandoned.

A little more generous spirit on the part of the public toward public service corporations would help the city, said Mr. Davis. "The present method is not the right one." He thought that as Kingston crosses the Washington avenue line would pay but at the present time the company is operating at a loss there and should receive an advance.

John E. Mahar brought up the question of the raising of an increase and explained that this was not the question now before the meeting. It was a question as to whether the trolley company should be allowed to operate at a loss or whether it should be required to operate at a profit.

Judge Jenkins will appoint the committee on five to appear before the public service commission and announce the names today.

BLIZZARD HITS NEW YORK HARD

Entire North Atlantic Coast Lashed By Gale—Train Service Demanded And In Danger—N. Y. Streets Worst In Long Time.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 5.—A raging blizzard of wind, snow and sleet has held this city in its grip for more than 24 hours. The sleet, freezing as it fell, completely paralyzed street railway traffic. The heavy fall of snow was piled by the high wind into huge drifts and the street cleaning force was almost powerless to keep the main arteries of traffic open.

Telegraph and telephone communication was badly crippled and all trains arriving in this city from the west and from New England points were from 30 minutes to 6 hours late.

Thousands of commuters from New Jersey were held up. Huge ice floes in the Hudson river and the harbor made the ferry service hazardous and service on the Hudson tubes was impaired by lack of fuel at the power house.

There were numerous accidents throughout the city. The streets were solid sheets of ice and the wrecks of overturned motor cars dotted the thoroughfares all the way from the Battery to the Bronx. Trucking was practically at a standstill.

The dangers and discomforts of the storm were multiplied by the severity of the cold. Some of the power houses supplying traction lines had exhausted virtually all their reserve stock of coal today.

The public health department was also alarmed over the effect of the blizzard upon the influenza and pneumonia epidemic. The streets are in worse condition than they have been at any time this winter.

The storm struck New York from the northeast with a 30 mile wind which rapidly rose to the fury of a gale. The entire Atlantic coast to the northeast and southwest of this port was lashed, causing grave dangers to shipping.

The charitable institutions which care for the homeless were filled to capacity during the night.

TWENTY-FIVE NEW INFLUENZA CASES

Twenty-five new cases of flu were reported to the board of health this morning, bringing the total number of cases reported since the outbreak in Kingston, to 312 cases.

PURCELL EXPLAINS NEW SYSTEM

Of Calisthenics, Games, Health Talks, Etc., Which Will Make Military Training More Beneficial—Finch's Work Praised.

On Wednesday afternoon Major Raymond F. Purcell, of the state physical training bureau, held a conference in the office of the Superintendent of Schools Myron J. Michael at the high school with Mr. Michael, Principal Lewis, Lieutenant Finch of the National Guard, who gives the military instruction to Kingston boys, and Physical Instructor Huey.

It will interest all who know Dr. Thomas A. Storey to learn he is the head of the state bureau of military training which Major Purcell represents.

The purpose of the conference was to consider the new plan of military training to be adopted for the young men of our state, aged 16, 17 and 18 years. Up to the present time these young fellows, whether in school or at work, have been having, at the state armory, an hour and a half of military training a week. But that training has been found to be lacking in variety of instruction and not productive of all the good that should be derived from an hour and a half out of a week's life of any boy busy in high school or working, too, in order to stay there.

The new plan of the military training commission is to subdivide that hour and a half as follows: 10 minutes to assembly; 5 minutes to calisthenics or setting up exercises; 10 minutes to games, athletic competitions, etc.; 20 minutes to talks on health, vocational work, etc., to be given by local men who are experts in their lines of work and know how to present their subject in a live way to the lads.

Major Purcell, in talking of the drilling or setting-up exercises, said that he had early enlisted in the service of his country in the war, and in addition to service had made a special study of this sort of work as carried on in all of the allied armies, the British, French, Italian, and also in the Swedish training systems, as well as the German. As a result of this study of all of the varied forms an American system had been developed that embraced the best in each. One thing that Major Purcell did not tell at the conference was that he had with him in battle some of our Kingston boys, whom he described as splendid stuff, indeed. And he further expressed the regret that his time was so limited that he could not visit the homes of the brave lads, especially those homes where the other lads had not been so fortunate as himself in coming back to their loved ones.

But he did tell how these setting-up exercises had first gripped him, a boy on the farm, who up to the age of twelve knew nothing of such team work and rhythmic and precise drill. He went home from his first experience so enthused with it that he had his father and mother and sister all lined up in the farm house kitchen and going through the drill before he went to bed that night.

Many of the exercises were briefly illustrated by Major Purcell, showing their value beyond the peradventure of any doubt.

When it came to military tactics, the major explained that by having such a live, capable enthusiastic man as Lieutenant Finch, as instructor, even military tactics could and would, according to the State Syllabus, be made of interest to the boys.

When it came to athletics, the major explained that by having such a live, capable enthusiastic man as Lieutenant Finch, as instructor, even military tactics could and would, according to the State Syllabus, be made of interest to the boys.

When it came to the process of elimination the title will be chosen as representative and these representatives will be assembled at the summer camp, there to receive the instruction that will make of these individual development. These instructions will set them on the road to their respective groups.

Then these will be the health examinations once a year, given under the co-operating supervision of the state or local health department. Following with examinations, occupational exercises will be given. Major Purcell illustrated this point by telling of the number of boys at the state camp who were found to be weak in the chest and lungs, that by the aid of occupational training, many of them were strengthened and returned to their normal state.

When it came to the subject of the twenty minutes to be devoted to live talks by men of the community, Major Purcell said that Kingston was at least ten years ahead of the camps that set as far as the working boys of our city are concerned through the instrumentality of the State Syllabus.

The conference closed with a discussion as to the summer and winter camps and the plan of military training.

BOSTON CENTER OF BLIZZARD

Wind With Indications of Worse Conditions—Trains and Boat Service Hampered—Fleets Storm-bound at Vineyard Haven and Buzzard's Bay.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Feb. 5.—The worst blizzard of the season, a northeast gale, accompanied by heavy snow fall, struck Boston and southern New England today.

Driven by a thirty-six mile wind, the snow drifted three and four feet deep, disrupting train service and paralyzing suburban traffic.

The storm increased in intensity on Cape Cod where the wind velocity was 50 miles, halting all shipping and completely tying up trains. Fleets of vessels are storm-bound in Vineyard Haven and Buzzard's Bay.

Eastbound trains arrived from the west, two to three hours late and boats for New York were unable to get away. A special train was substituted to care for Boston-New York steamer passengers.

At ten o'clock this morning eleven inches of snow had fallen here and according to the weather bureau this amount will be more than doubled before night.

A foot of snow is reported from Connecticut. The blizzard will become more intense hourly, the weather bureau predicted.

The storm was centralized in southern New England and north Atlantic states. Local New England trains have been cut off but little trouble is reported north of Boston.

After the conference, Major Purcell went to the armory where Lieutenant Finch was giving the high school boys the first training in the new plan, as described by the major, who was most enthusiastic in his praise of the new plan. After the setting-up drill, Major Purcell himself gave the boys a demonstration of the new plan, as described by the major, who was most enthusiastic in his praise of the new plan.

When it came to the subject of the twenty minutes to be devoted to live talks by men of the community, Major Purcell said that Kingston was at least ten years ahead of the camps that set as far as the working boys of our city are concerned through the instrumentality of the State Syllabus.

INCOME TAX MAN AT MARLBOROUGH

The last day to file your New York state income tax returns will soon be here. State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis is sending agents to many up-state cities and villages to distribute forms and assist taxpayers in filling out their returns.

The following assignment for Ulster county has been made by Mr. Travis for the week of February 9: William M. A. O'Neill, auditor, at the office of John Rusk, Marlborough, on February 13 and 14.

Many persons have received by mail the necessary forms because they were subject to federal returns. However, the failure to receive a blank does not excuse the taxpayer from the filing of a return. On the contrary, if he does not file his report before March 15, he may be subject to the severe penalties mentioned in the law.

District Director J. DePuy Hasbrouck of Kingston, where taxpayers for Ulster county should file a return, explained that blanks for individuals are provided in two classes; short form 200 applies to those whose income is wholly from personal service compensation and salaries, interest, dividends, or from partnerships, estates or trusts. It is not limited as in the federal return to income of $5,000 or less, but must be used for incomes from these sources of any amount.

If a man is in business or practicing a profession, he should ask for form 201. Partnership returns are known as form 204. Trustees, executors or persons acting in a fiduciary capacity, use form 200 as well as form 205 for return of information.

SIMPLE DESIGNS FOR NEW FROCKS

Following After-the-War Extravagance in Clothes Reverse Reaction Prevails.

TAFFETA DRESSES IN FAVOR

Fabric Bids Fair to Be Popular for Spring Wear—Summery-Looking Hats for Southern Visitors.

As a violent reaction, clothes became widely extravagant almost as soon as the war was over. There were a few months of readjustment, while dressmakers were getting their establishments back into normal working conditions; but this period was surprisingly brief. No sooner was this done, even in a limited way, than the market became flooded with an avalanche of clothes, as extravagant as any that the world has ever seen. Now we are experiencing a reverse reaction, observes a prominent fashion correspondent.

While it cannot be claimed that our frocks are any less expensive than they were six months ago, they are a great deal simpler in design. There is no mistaking the indication that women want all of their dresses built on the simplest and most youthful lines, and that they will pay more for a dress of this character than one elaborated with applied trimmings.

Season Calls for Pretty Clothes.

We live, in time, of all our clothes, and now is the time when we especially feel the need of something fresh and different. Then, at this season, we have so many more social engagements that we like to have a great variety of pretty clothes in which to appear. In both the early and late autumn this need was filled by one-piece cloth dresses and beautiful furs. Later, these frocks were topped by coats of either cloth or fur. Now, we feel the need of a suit that is completed by some sort of an attractive blouse, unusual enough to make the costume something quite different from the old-fashioned coat and skirt.

A suit, by Doenillet, was created to fill this need. Its arrival may be heralded as the most popular suit that this famous house has launched for the winter. The strong one-side movement and the long coat are its features. The portion which laps across the front, buttoning under the left arm, to give a semi-belted appearance, is cut in one piece with the right front of the jacket. The color combination worked out in this is remarkably pleasing. Copper brown colors de laise in the material selected for it.

The tendency in tailored suits is toward the use of pronounced colors. The attractive popular dark blue is, for the moment, selected. Much of this is due to the fact that in the past several years, dark blue has been the most popular color of all shades. There must be some changing depth in the color tone to bring out the beauty of the fabric, hence, browns and greens are chosen in preference to blue or black.

The suit and rather size of broad, full, although it has been made with close trimmings of the heavy plush which is often substituted for fur this season. While the broadness is decidedly more luxurious, the plush is most economical, and has the advantage of being easily replaceable. The suit is made of black cloth with a plush lining and a plush skirt. The suit is made of black cloth with a plush lining and a plush skirt. The suit is made of black cloth with a plush lining and a plush skirt.

Taffeta Dresses in Favor.

Probably the pretty skirts of this season will be the first to show great changes in design since the war.

It is surprising to find that dress meeting with continued success in the midwinter season. Those who look ahead in fashion will see in this indication of a considerable use of this fabric for spring. We have come to think of it as such a practical material that it never has had the attention that it deserved from the artistic standpoint. It was always featured in evening gowns for members of the fact that its stiffness makes it suitable to these designs. Now those who make dresses are using it for straight-line models which wrap about the figure. Of course it is not a fabric which lends itself to a long-line drapery with any degree of grace, but it could not be surpassed by any other material for short, puffy drapery.

Lavette especially has had great success with her taffeta dresses. She makes them with and without embroidery. Black and navy blue are the colors most in demand in taffeta.

This winter hats have reflected the uncertainty of the alibonette. There has been a war between the dress with the puffy hips and the one of slender lines and the question of a choice between the two has had an important bearing on all fashions. As both these types were worn, it was natural that there should be both large and small hats as well as those that were plain and those greatly trimmed.

We always see the full skirt accompanied by a rather large hat of picturesque shape, which is topped by trimming of a fuzzy character; while the straight-line dress has in its wake the small hat. Fur toques are fashionable bits of headwear for this midwinter.

Please Southern Visitors.

Those going South are beginning to think more of springlike things, and for them quite summery-looking hats are already making their appearance. Glazed chintz and cretonnes are featured in some of them. We have had chintz and cretonne hats for the country in other summers, but the glazed, or shellacked, chintz, has not been used before. It is indefinitely more practical than the ordinary chintz, as it sheds the dust easily and may be wiped off with a damp cloth. Then, if one is caught in the rain with one of these summery-looking hats on, there is no fear of its turning into a bedraggled mass of cloth, for even a rubber rain hat could shed a downpour no better.

Quite a remarkable trimming appears on the glazed chintz hats. It is a fringe of straw. Although you may not be going South it is a very good idea to get some of these hats, for they are most attractive and in the hurry of getting ready for an occasion from town in the spring it is not always easy to find just what one wants in country hats.

Impulsive Bird.

Some birds are so easily carried away to know what is going on. If they see a house being built in their neighborhood they will come close to investigate and perhaps to build one of their kind in the same neighborhood. The American House Finch, Washington, this bird has a preference for woods which are low and damp and are usually built within the depths of tangled bushes. It makes its nest in the fork of a tree or in a hole in the side of a tree.

Yachts Popular with Southerners.

Probably the pretty skirts of this season will be the first to show great changes in design since the war.

It is surprising to find that dress meeting with continued success in the midwinter season. Those who look ahead in fashion will see in this indication of a considerable use of this fabric for spring. We have come to think of it as such a practical material that it never has had the attention that it deserved from the artistic standpoint. It was always featured in evening gowns for members of the fact that its stiffness makes it suitable to these designs. Now those who make dresses are using it for straight-line models which wrap about the figure. Of course it is not a fabric which lends itself to a long-line drapery with any degree of grace, but it could not be surpassed by any other material for short, puffy drapery.

Lavette especially has had great success with her taffeta dresses. She makes them with and without embroidery. Black and navy blue are the colors most in demand in taffeta.

This winter hats have reflected the uncertainty of the alibonette. There has been a war between the dress with the puffy hips and the one of slender lines and the question of a choice between the two has had an important bearing on all fashions. As both these types were worn, it was natural that there should be both large and small hats as well as those that were plain and those greatly trimmed.

We always see the full skirt accompanied by a rather large hat of picturesque shape, which is topped by trimming of a fuzzy character; while the straight-line dress has in its wake the small hat. Fur toques are fashionable bits of headwear for this midwinter.

Please Southern Visitors.

Those going South are beginning to think more of springlike things, and for them quite summery-looking hats are already making their appearance. Glazed chintz and cretonnes are featured in some of them. We have had chintz and cretonne hats for the country in other summers, but the glazed, or shellacked, chintz, has not been used before. It is indefinitely more practical than the ordinary chintz, as it sheds the dust easily and may be wiped off with a damp cloth. Collector Roscoe Irwin of the 14th New York District says there will be no general extension of time for filing income tax returns. Complete returns, accompanied by at least one fourth of the amount of the tax due must be in the hands of Collectors of Internal Revenue before March 15, 1920. Extensions will be granted only in special cases where urgent need for additional time in preparing the return is shown.

Reasons it was not complete a return by March 15, corporations and individuals were permitted to file on or before that date a tentative return and were given an extension of forty-five days in which to file a complete return. Conditions which justified such extensions last year do not exist this year.

Regulations governing the collection of the income tax have been issued.

Forms are now in the hands of Collectors of Internal Revenue for distribution among taxpayers and there is every reason to assume that the taxpayers have ample time in which to prepare and file their returns by March 15.

It is important that the taxpayer render before the return due date a return as complete and final as it is possible for him to prepare. However, in cases of sickness or absence collectors are authorized to grant an extension of not exceeding thirty days, where in their judgment such further time is actually required for the making of an accurate return. The application for such extension must be made prior to the expiration of the period for which the extension is desired. The absence or sickness of one or more officers of a corporation at the time the return is required to be filed will not be accepted as a reasonable cause for failure to file the return within the prescribed time unless it is satisfactorily shown that there were no other principal officers available and sufficiently informed as to the affairs of the corporation to make and verify the return.

If before the end of an extension of thirty days granted by the collector an accurate return cannot be made, an appeal for a further extension must be made to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue with a full recital of the cause for the delay. The Commissioner will not grant an additional extension without a clear showing that a complete return cannot be made at the end of the thirty day period.

Taxpayers should file in district where they live or have principal place of business.

REWARD FOR HOXIE SLAYER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 5.—When the city board of estimate met today it was expected that a reward of $5,000 would be voted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of pretty 17 year old Ream Constance Hoxie.

Alarmed at the ease with which the slayer had fearlessly attacked and killed his victim in the very heart of the city, District Attorney Swann proposed the reward to stimulate the search. Two suspects, who had been arrested, were both released, having proved alibis and the police were still without a definite clue today although they have worked constantly upon the case since Monday evening. The murderer disappeared as completely as though the earth had swallowed him up, leaving no trace behind.

A special squad of forty detectives has been detailed to look up all the roomers who formerly lived with the Hoxie family in the fashionable apartment house at 72 West 89th street.

press today appealed to the people of England to surrender their gold jewelry and hoarded coins so that press.

The newspaper suggests a bond issue to secure the indebtedness of the people who surrender their gold.

COLLINS AND STEDMAN WRANGLE OVER HISTORY OF SOCIALISM

Party Unquestionably Favored Germany During War Says
K. of C. Lecturer—Chairman Martin Impatient as Attorneys Quibble—Says Record Is a Farce.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The investigation into the fitness of five New York state Socialists to sit in the assembly, was turned into an elementary school of Socialism—its meanings and intentions—today at a humorous session of the assembly judiciary committee.

Peter W. Collins, the Boston Knights of Columbus organizer and state expert on Socialism, was again on the stand under cross-examination by Seymour Stedman, chief counsel for the ousted Socialists.

Clashes between opposing counsel were so numerous that Chairman Martin was forced to order the stenographer half a dozen times to quit taking notes while he endeavored to get the investigation back into normal channels.

"This record is getting into a chaotic state," said Martin. "I read it last night. It is a farce."

Stedman questioned Collins' fitness to testify as an expert on Socialism and went back in history to test him. He attempted to prove by Collins that the combined "mass action" of the French and English Socialists in 1864 prevented their respective governments from openly entering the American civil war on the side of the south. Collins denied this.

From that point Stedman led Collins up through the pages of history in attempting to prove that the Socialists, as a party, had invariably opposed war and that their works and actions invariably were for the benefit of humanity.

Collins proved a recalcitrant witness and steadfastly refused to admit that there was any good whatsoever to the Socialist party.

Assembly Louis Cuvillier of New York interrupted at one point with the question:

"Did the Socialist party of America favor Germany during the war?"

"Unquestionably," was Collins's reply.

"I challenge you to tell me any expression of utterance by any Socialist writer of prominence during the war that favored the Imperial German government," shouted Stedman.

"If you will furnish me the files of the New York Call, the Milwaukee Leader and the Chicago Daily Socialist I will gladly do so," retorted Collins.

Stedman threw his hands aloft in a gesture of disgust.

"I've lived in Chicago for years. I live there now. There is no such paper as the Chicago Daily Socialist. If you can show me one now I will surrender my clients and let them plead guilty to anything you suggest."

"Well, it may be weeks," replied the witness.

Stedman endeavored to show that Collins was wholly biased and prejudiced in his attitude toward Socialists.

"Do you belong to any secret society which has for its object opposition to Socialism?"

"I belong to the Knights of Columbus," said Collins, "which among other things, has for its object."

"Who pays for your lectures against Socialism?"

"The Knights of Columbus."

"How long have you been so employed?"

"About eight years."

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 5.—The end of the state's case against the five suspended Socialist assemblymen from New York either late today or tomorrow seemed probable when the hearing got under way again today.

The state plans to offer only a few more witnesses, it was said, and if Seymour Stedman, the Socialist's chief counsel, will make brief their cross-examination the state will close and move for an adjournment over the week end. In that case the Socialists will start their defense next week.

How long the defense will take is problematical. Stedman declared that the defense would take less than one-quarter of the time which the prosecution has used. This drew from John B. Stanchfield, the state's chief attorney, the remark:

"That is probably true. If I had to defend these five men, I wouldn't take that long."

Predictions that the action of the judiciary committee would be split along party lines have failed to materialize. There are ten Republicans and three Democrats on the committee, and two of these latter voted to appear so far, which was Assemblyman Bloch's motion to strike from the record the testimony of Ellen R. Chittenden to the effect that Assemblyman Solomon spat upon the American flag.

The "lobby guests" about the capitol are confident that the Socialists will be ousted. Some believe that Assemblyman Orr and DeWitt will be able to obtain their seats, as far as the state has not "burnt anything out of them." However, the Socialists are deemed certain of discomfiture by the corridor brawls.

A hot argument between Stanchfield and Stedman, ensued at the opening of the hearing today over Stanchfield's reading into the record of an article appearing in the New York Call on February 10, 1912, which bitterly excoriated "millionaire" and added "splitting on the uniform of the United States army and made the American flag."

Stedman objected on the ground that it was irrelevant, that it had no bearing on the qualifications of the Socialists. He said that it was a "burnt article" and that it was "burnt out of them."

Stedman said that it was "burnt out of them."

Stedman said that it was "burnt out of them."

Stedman said that it was "burnt out of them."

DEFICIENCY BILL IN LEGISLATURE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 5.—The annual deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $2,850,864.42, an increase of $1,300,000 over last year, was introduced today in the legislature by Senator Henry M. Sage and Assemblyman H. Edmund Macchold, chairman of the financial committee.

Deficiencies in appropriations for the state institutions make up the greater part of the appropriations. The increases are laid to higher costs of living. Increases needed for the state institutions—total $1,700,000, including $787,000 for food; $130,000 for fuel; and $253,000, for clothing.

The bill appropriates $116,000 to continue existence of the state ex-cise commission until June 30, the end of the fiscal year. The department now is scheduled under existing appropriations to be dissolved March 31.

Other items in the bill include $443,000 for canal repairs, $345,000 to meet claims against the state and $57,000 for the employment bureau of the state industrial commission.

Big Waves Smash Hotels and Bungalows at Brighton, Too.

New York, Feb. 5.—Tremendous damage was done by high water at Coney Island and Brighton Beach today. The Atlantic bath house was destroyed with $20,000 loss, and other property valued at more than $25,000 was wrecked.

New Egyptian Make Fire.

The question of how the Egyptians made fire was one that often exercised archeologists. No representation of the process existed on the monuments, nor does the nation appear to have attached any religious significance to the origin of fire. The question was settled by the discovery at Kahun of a regular brick drill for making fire, together with several other things showing the tools used by the Egyptians in the process.

PREDICTS FALL OF GERMAN GOV'T

If Allied Demand For War Criminals Is Carried Out—High Excitement in Berlin and Sweep of Bolshevism May Result, Says Vorwaerts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Berlin, Feb. 5.—The fall of the German government with the accompanying danger of bolshevism was predicted by the Socialist newspaper, Vorwaerts, today, as a result of the allies' demand for alleged German war criminals. The newspaper points out that, if bolshevism sweeps Germany, the allies would have no chance of securing the execution of their treaty demands.

Belief was expressed in circles close to the cabinet, that the government will claim it is impossible to meet the demands of the allies. There is high excitement here and the opinion is expressed that the next few days may decide the future fate of Germany.

Heretofore the cabinet had believed that the allies were, to some extent, "spoofing" and the determined demand for the accused German officials threw some of the members of the government into complete confusion.

The demand for Field Marshal von Hindenburg caused some of the cabinet members to make the gloomy prediction that the troops would mutiny before they would arrest the former chief of staff.

The first of the cabinet members to make the open threat to resign were Dr. Schiffer and Dr. Rousch. They declared they would leave the ministry rather than vote to deliver the wanted officers.

Most of the German newspapers support the stand of von Lersner and it is also endorsed by many leading politicians.

The Lokal Anzeiger, in commenting upon the developments, says that a crisis has been reached and that "the fate and honor of the German nation are at stake." It adds:

"This is a disgrace that will not be borne. The German people will rally their last strength and honor to prevent it. But it is necessary to keep cool to ensure success. There is no question that the German officials demanded are extraditable, but it must be remembered that the destiny, honor and future of the entire German nation are in the balance now."

"The general impression is that the list beats all expectations," said the Tagblatt. This newspaper comments in a very pessimistic strain.

Protestant church organizations have united in a resolution to the government appealing to it not to yield the German officers.

It is revealed that many members of the ministry have received letters threatening personal violence if they decide to give up the alleged culprits.

Some of the German cabinet members described themselves as "being stunned" by the names included in the list. The names were received by telegram direct from Paris, the first being that of Grand Duke Albrecht, of Wurttemberg, a former commander on the western front.

The list included the following others:

The ex-crown prince, Field Marshal von Hindenburg, former German chief of staff; Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States; Dr. von Papen, former German chancellor of Germany when the war broke out; Dr. Zimmermann, former foreign secretary; Count Bismarck, the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg; General Falkenhayn, former chief of staff, who directed the Austro-German drive into Roumania; General von Goltz, commander of an army group on the eastern front; former Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, commander of the northern German army group on the western front; Prince Frederick of Prussia; General von Moellath; General von Hinderburg, former chief of staff to Hindenburg; Prince Eitel Friedrich, son of the Kaiser; Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria; General von Kueck, who led the German drive on Paris in 1914; Colonel Reinhardt; Admiral von Tirpitz; Admiral von Kappeler; Admiral von Scheer; General von Buelow, who is now dead; General von Linsingen, commander of an army group on the eastern front; General von Quast; Count Waldersee; Prince Ratibor and Prince Ernest of Saxony.

At least two Turkish officials are on the list. They are Enver Pasha, who was virtually in control of the Turkish government when the war broke out; and Talaat Pasha, who is accused of being a tool of Germany.

The cabinet met in special session last evening to consider the allies' demand for 800 German military and officers of state who are wanted for extradition and the resignation of Baron von Lersner as head of the German peace delegation in Paris. Baron von Lersner is expected to arrive from Paris some time tomorrow.

The list of names of wanted Germans was received telegraphically direct from Paris.

Mrs. Sarah M. Burdette, of Lake Katrine, who recently visited her mother, Mrs. Grace Merritt on Clinton avenue, is very ill at Albany suffering from a severe attack of acute indigestion and heart trouble. Her daughter, Catherine, was called from Jersey City, N. J., to be with her. Since the death of her son, Edward Burdette, she has spent the winters in Albany with her daughters, Mrs. Richard Ten Eyck and Mrs. Joseph M. Burdette. Mrs. Burdette is receiving medical attention from Mrs. Fure and Leonard of Albany, and her only recovery is looked for.

TROLLEY SERVICE FOR CONCERT

Every effort will be made by the trolley lines to accommodate the people who attend the concert of the Welsh singers Friday evening at the high school. It is not generally understood by the public that cars must run on schedule time, and there is no place for cars to stand in front of the high school. A man will be on hand that evening who will report to the car barn when the concert is about to close when cars will be sent forward from the barn to carry the people home. Those who attend the concert should wait a few minutes until the cars reach there. The concert which is high class is free to the public. It will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

STATE FARM COLLEGE NEEDS

Pointing out some things the state college of agriculture has done for the people of New York state, a committee of farmers has just issued a statement which also gives things to be done by the college.

Agricultural organizations of the state have made certain demands upon the college which had to be met with the statement that the college was not equipped to do the work they wanted. This was particularly true in respect to the dairy industry. It was found, for example, that instruction in dairying at Cornell included only the handling of milk and the making of ice cream, cheese and butter. With a strong demand for knowledge of methods in making powdered milk, dried milk and condensed milk, it was discovered that the college could not give instruction in these subjects, because it had neither the quarters, the equipment, nor the instructing staff.

Farmers Study Needs. Eighteen committees composed of more than 100 persons and representing all phases of agriculture, rural life and home economics, visited the college and found the institution handicapped by lack of funds and by lack of buildings. Their published report asks that adequate salaries be provided, and that buildings to cost more than $4,000,000 be constructed. It recommends, specifically, that enough be appropriated to start three large buildings to be devoted to plant industry, rural engineering and dairy industry, and that the legislative session of 1920 should further authorize the drawing of plans to cover the balance of a complete building program.

Newspaper men of the state who gathered at the college recently found "crowded quarters, everywhere, with investigators, teachers and clerks compelled to use laboratories and offices to which the sunlight never penetrates, and with no means of adequate ventilation. Salaries are too low to compete with similar institutions in other states, much less with commercial concerns that are constantly seeking the college's well-trained men and women."

The Cities' Interest.

The report says: "On the basis of what the college has done and can do in respect to the food supply, it deserves largely of all classes of persons in commonwealth, and particularly of the consumers who live in the cities. In the last analysis the concern of city dwellers is greater than that of any other group of citizens, because the city always suffers first and most from a deficient food supply. There is only one safe course: The whole people must see that all essential agencies for the promotion of sound, permanent and efficient agriculture are adequately maintained. Investment here will bring abundant returns to the people."

AT THE THEATRES.

Rex Beach's Story, "The Spoilers," at Opera House Tonight.

The requests for a return engagement of "The Spoilers" have been so many that special arrangements have been made to bring this great masterpiece to Kingston for a two day engagement at the Kingston Opera House tonight and Friday.

Marguerite Clark in "Widow by Proxy" at Keeney's tonight shows this popular star in a comedy role especially suited to her talents.

Also prima presenting John Burroughs, the naturalist.

Singing is the sheet anchor of minstrelsy. Without the sweet lullade and the attuned voices, minstrelsy would not have such hold on the affections of its supporters. The greatest songs of the land, the songs of Emmett, Hays, Stephen Foster and others have been made popular by the singers of the Al. G. Field minstrel show, which will appear at the Kingston Opera House Saturday night.

Ford And The Hornet.

A big business man was telling Henry Ford this story about a coach driver of super-experience with his whip: The driver was telling a passenger how he could flick a fly off his horse's ear with his whip— and a fly alighting just then, he promptly did so. Next he spied a grasshopper beside the road, and he flicked it off with equal dexterity.

The passenger was becoming increasingly interested. A little farther along the road he noticed an insect on a bush, and nudged the driver to get him. "Not on your life," replied the master of the whip. "That fly I nailed and no friends and the grasshopper didn't have any either; but that insect is a hornet and he is sitting on his nest with an organization behind him. I leave him alone."—Forbes Magazine.

GREGORY & CO.

FRANCE HONORS K. OF C. LEADERS

Word has been received at the New York headquarters of the Knights of Columbus, 195 West 40th street, that the French government had decorated William J. Mulligan of Thompsonville, Conn., chairman of the K. of C. War Activities Committee, and two other K. of C. executives—William P. Larkin of New York, overseas director and Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston, supreme advocate.

The decoration bestowed on the K-C men is the medal of public instruction of the Republic of France, first class, with palm leaves. The honor is symbolized by a mauve boutonniere. Mr. Mulligan, who has headed the K. of C. war committee for nearly two years and Messrs. Larkin and Pelletier were recently made Knights of St. Gregory by Pope Benedict XV.

BURROUGHS FILMED.

Twenty Picture Shows Claret Naturalist in Pleasing Role.

The setting is one of exceptional scenic beauty, and Mr. Burroughs as a gentle, gracious host to three small eager visitors, Janet Hill, Beatrice Pohlman and William Tyler, is most truly and happily cast.

The secret nesting place of a junco is revealed and visited, and, under the withery of his unweaving bees, butterflies and grass hoppers become objects of absorbing wonder and delight.

The picture was filmed by Captain George Stone, who used the new color process. Captain Stone is a natural history scientist and has worked extensively in this field, both in North and Central America. He considers this picture from standpoint of interest and artistic value, one of the best he has ever made.

Janet C. Hill, who is intimately shown in this picture with our naturalist, John Burroughs, was born in Kingston eight years ago, when her father, H. A. Hill, who is an engineer on the New York board of water supply, moved his residence to Roxbury, New York.

LATTINGTOWN.

Lattintown, Feb. 5.—The weather of the past week has been very cold, the thermometer being down from 16 to 22 degrees below zero here and near by.

The fire wood business has been extensively engaged in in this section on account of the fine sleighing. The farmers who have good lots are cutting and drawing their wood home to be sawed in stove lengths by a buzz saw.

Mr. Vandermark is doing considerable wood sawing in this neighborhood with his gasoline apparatus. The Rev. Mr. Blakeney of Milton, who conducted the preaching service in the Baptist Church here evenings for a week, has closed them, it being considered best by the church people on account of the severe cold weather at that time. His sermons were brief but interesting, having timely illustrations interspersed, which his hearers enjoyed. He was also presented with a gift for his labor.

William Wolley has gone to Florida with Mr. Hepworth for a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Mackey have returned from Point Comfort, Virginia, and Washington, where they traveled for pleasure.

Mrs. A. H. Mackey gave her Sunday school class a social entertainment at her home not long ago. Refreshments were served and "puzzles" enjoyed by the class.

Riding down hill seems to be the enjoyment of the young these moonlight evenings.

Mrs. James Weed, Mrs. Segel and Mrs. McGowan are ill.

Howard St. John took a party of Marlborough High School pupils to Newburgh one evening last week for a jolly sleighride. Miss Margaret Kaley and William McGowan of the place went also with the load.

LEIBHARDT HEIGHTS.

Leibhardt, Heights, Feb. 5.—A number of the people of this place are suffering with colds.

Miss Jennie G. DeWitt and Ernest Markle took supper and spent the evening with the Hornbeck family Sunday evening.

Many of the young people are planning to attend the entertainment and party Friday evening.

A surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Hendrickson in honor of their daughter, Miss Celestia, on Tuesday evening. The evening was spent by playing games and singing hymns, with Miss Irene, the organist. At a late hour refreshments were served and all the young folks departed for their homes at a late hour of the night, visiting Miss Hendrickson a royal carter.

Mrs. Amelia Markle spent Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Eliza DeWitt.

Miss Minnie J. Brown, sister Carol, and Rex Brown, enjoyed a sleighride Sunday afternoon, and also called at the home of William Oakley of Accord.

CENTRALS AND PIONEERS WIN

As was predicted, there was an exceptionally large attendance at St. Peter's Hall Wednesday evening to witness the games in the Colonial basketball league. Centrals defeated Kaseys by the score of 15-4 and Pioneers defeated Peerless by the score of 18-12. Summary:

Peerless-Pioneers, first half: Moxham started with a field. Dietz followed with a field. Deegan made good a foul. Moxham made another field. Hartman made a nice field from deep center. Hornbeck got a field. Deegan got a field. Half ended 9-5 for Pioneers.

Kaseys-Centrals, first half: B. Rourke started off with a field. Pallis made good a foul. Kiernan made good a foul. Gregory got a field. Hallinan made good a foul. Kiernan got a field. Gregory got a field. Culliton got a field. E. Rourke got a field. Hallinan got a field. Kiernan got a field. Half ended 16-7 for Centrals.

Peerless-Pioneers, second half: Hornbeck made good a foul. Dietz got a field. Hartman got a field. Moxham made good a foul. McConnell got a field. Schwab got another field. Hornbeck got a field. Game ended. Pioneers, 13; Peerless, 12.

Kaseys-Centrals, second half: Culliton made a nice field. Murphy made good a foul. Murphy made good another foul. 15-11 in favor of Centrals, seven minutes to play. Hallinan made good a foul. Murphy got a field, making the score 15-14, with two minutes to play. Game ended. Centrals, 15; Kaseys, 14.

Matty Clarke was again the referee and acted in a masterly manner, which is saying a lot in a game such as the game proved to be.

This practically clinches the position for Centrals as they have only one more game to play and the near team is two games in the rear. The season closes next week with games on Wednesday and Friday and these should draw large crowds as good games can be looked for. Bunny Rourke and "Bud" Culliton were both on the court and played a fast game, as shown by the summary. Gregory started. The scores:
